

DECANTER MAN OF THE YEAR 2018
EDUARDO CHADWICK

London, March 2018

Eduardo Chadwick has been awarded the prestigious title of Decanter Man of the Year for devoting his life to the service of fine wine and recognized excellence in the wine world.

"He is an heroic and indefatigable ambassador for his country's wines and wine industry, and Chile could not wish for a better champion. Equally Decanter could not have chosen a more deserving or popular winner."

- John Stimpfig, content director of Decanter

"He was already and continues to be the best ambassador his country's wines have ever had."

- Steven Spurrier, 2017 Decanter Man of the Year

"His commitment to learning, producing and advocating the great wines of Chile has elevated the reality and awareness of Chilean wine, and led me to think of Eduardo as the Robert Mondavi of Chile."

- Tim Mondavi, partner in Continuum Estate and co-creator of Seña
